KEYTESVILLE, MISSOURI

EVEN Arkansas has passed a law prohibiting gambling at race tracks. Missouri has set every state in the union a good example in this respect.

WE commend H. A. Gass, state superintendent of public schools, for his advocacy of county supervision of public schools. Nothing that is for the betterment of our schools should be considered "too expensive."

THE senate committee of the Missouri legislature has criticised State Game Warden J. H. Roden. Mr. Roden ought to be accustomed to being criticised by this time. Many a Missouri hunter has said things about him that would be inappropriate in a Sunday-school lesson.

IT now looks as though the two-cent railroad passenger fare bill and the "Jim Crow" bill, separating negroes from whites in railway coaches, will pass the lower house and senate of the Missouri legislature. These are measures that the times and the people demand, and the COURIER hopes they will be enacted into laws.

JAPAN has assumed a more friendly attitude towards the United States, and it doesn't look so much like a probable war with those "yellow jackets." If they really had covetous desires on the Philippine islands, Uncle Sam would do well to sell them the islands for what he gave for them. If he can not do that he could make money by giving the Philippines away to anybody who would take them off his hands.

THIRTY-TWO men and women of Princeton, Mercer county, Mo., have been arrested at the instance of Prosecuting Attorney Kesterson for playing cards for prizes. The proceedings are brought under section 2212 of the Missouri laws, which in a general way prohibits the playing of games for money, property or gain. The section provides a fine not to exceed $200 for the mere act, but admits of six months' imprisonment where minors are engaged in the game.

THE present Missouri legislature could immortalize itself by passing a law making the carrying of concealed weapons a felony. Such a law would save the people of Missouri thousands of dollars in criminal costs and, in many instances, would land the contemptible, white-livered cur, who carries a gun, in the penitentiary before a human life is sacrificed to his blood-thirsty desire to seek vengeance for a grievance that is often more imaginary than real. The fellow who acquires the concealed weapon habit is always looking for trouble and seldom fails to find it. The sooner he is sent to the penitentiary the safer it is for the law-abiding citizen and the better for the good of society. The gun play should have no part in a civilized community.
